OS16M (1914 – 1918) Met verwijzing naar de "Dodendraad"

Special Event Station at the occasion of the 2014 Heritage day and effort of the UBA to get morse code recognized as intangible world heritage

The 'Dodendraad' was an electric fence during the First World War, a lethal barbed wire marking the border between by Germany occupied Belgium and neutral Holland; it ran from the North Sea to Aachen and made more than 800 casualties.

To safeguard Morse Code as an intangible Heritage
